Location

64600 ANGLET, FRANCE

Project Year

2016

Located on the Landes de Jujan campus in Anglet, the place where can be found innovative companies among academic research and industrial knowledge. This business hotel, protected in the heart of the Basque coast, is a reflection of the dialogue between the landscape and the project. The project's environmental challenge is to make the architecture an interior landscape constructed in harmony with the surrounding natural landscape. The building is manifested in its implementation by making perceptible the structural forces, the inner-acting networks, architectural elements in full participating in the Identity of the place. The atmospheres are qualified by precise assemblages of raw and durable materials as concrete, wood and metal. The architecture is revealed with subtlety in order to create, at the heart of the agglomeration, a privileged environment, calm and conducive to work. The limits between the exterior and interior are deliberately blurred in order to benefit from the vitality of the environment, with the concern to integrate in the heart of the building the presence of natural light and its variations. The facade of the offices opens generously on nature. External walkways let you enjoy the softness of the site and encourage informal meetings by extending outside the workspaces, as an open forum for discussions of ideas.
